

Maison Jacques Copeau

6th 'Rencontres Jacques COPEAU' What happens between theater and cinema? Pernand-Vergelesses, October 26-28th, 2018 Pre-programme

With Charles BERLING, Dominique BLANC, Olivier BOHLER, Stéphan CASTANG, Clément COGITOR, Marco CONSOLINI, Sylvain DIEUAIDE, Sébastien DUPOUEY, Julien GAILLARD, Céline GAILLEURD, Marc HOLLOGNE, Jean-Louis HOURDIN, Nicolas KLOTZ, Marc LAINÉ, Caroline MARCADÉ, Béatrice PICON-VALLIN, Aurélie REINHORN, Cyril TESTE (in progress)...

We do not always know where we stand: "Maybe it is not a play. Maybe it is not a movie. Maybe it is both. At the same time", says the presentation of Christiane Jatahy's last show. This uncertainty can be found in numerous hybrid forms, cheerfully combining cinema and theatre, such as Cyril Teste's "film performances", or Katie Mitchell's "cinema-live-theater".

In between theater and cinema, the bridges are multifaceted. The current invasion of sets by screens is far from recognising it. Throughout history, artists have navigated from screens to sets, the devices, techniques and stories have drawn inspiration from each other.

How do they both play with space, time, with the outside and the inside? Are they for the actors and actresses two separate worlds? Are they competing to tell the real, to produce fiction?

With artists and researchers, we will explore these tenuous borders, side roads and playgrounds which celebrate the loves of theater and cinema.
